

TIMEMANAGEMENT4L.COM

Time management4L is an algorithm that installs software on your device, that organizes your projects, assignments, and appointments by most important and upcoming.

Time management4L provides the most up to date and user-friendly software in the market. The website specializes on automatically organizing a user's events automatically once they have uploaded their itinerary. Our system focuses on organizing events based on time, location from user, importance based on key words, length of event, and based on previous similar events the user may have inputted. We value providing the user with clear and concise plans for their events and constantly updating them on said events without them having to do any work.
